

THIRD PARTY MONITORING OF THE EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Part I

1.	Introduction	1
1.1	National Children's Alliance Goals	1
1.2	Project Goals	2
1.3	Outline for the Discussion Paper	3
2.	Context	3
2.1	Background of the National Children's Agenda and the Early Childhood Development Initiative	3
2.2	The ECDI and SUFA	5
2.3	The Limits of Monitoring	7
3.	Indicators	8
3.1	The Challenges in Using Social Indicators in Public Accountability	10
3.2	Difficulties Monitoring the ECDI Specifically	11
3.3	Data Limitations	13
3.4	About the Surveys and Other Data Sources	15
4.	Exemplary Models	18
4.1	National Models	19
4.2	International Models	22

Part II

5.	Building a Framework for Third Party Monitoring	24
5.1	Understanding Child Development	24
5.2	The Rights of Children	25
5.3	Inclusion	26
6.	Proposed Framework for Third Party Monitoring	27
6.1	Identifying Key Operating Assumptions	27
6.2	Filling the Basket, Creating a Baseline for Monitoring	30
6.3	Measuring Improvement and Enhancement	32
6.4	Identifying Indicators to Monitor ECDI Supports And Child Outcomes	34
6.5	Thinking about the Intended Audience and Format	36
7.	Provincial Perspectives on Third Party Monitoring	38

Part III

- |    |   |    |
|----|---|----|
| 8. | Recipe for Action                           | 39 |
| 9. | Discussion Guide: Moving Theory Into Action | 41 |

Appendices

- A. Regional Perspectives
  - British Columbia
  - Manitoba
  - Newfoundland
- B. ECDI Announcements by Provincial and Territorial Governments
- C. Federal ECDI Commitments
- D. Relevant Provincial Websites
- E. Bibliography excerpted from:
  - Peters, Ray DeV. (1999) Preventing long-term social problems and costs through early support and Intervention programs for young children, their mothers and their neighbourhoods: The role of social science research. Invited presentation to the humanities and Social Sciences Federation of Canada's "Breakfast on the Hill" Seminar.